“ I met Steve a few years ago. We both enjoyed eating sushi at Hoki Japanese Restaurant in Atlanta. He was always a complex combination of emotions, and was comfortable enough with me to freely express himself.

I am glad I was able to visit him in the hospital and recovery. I wish I could have done more. I hope I did enough for him.

I'll miss your laugh, your sarcasm, and the way you saw the world, Steve. I'll share some sake with our Hoki family in your honor.

Leif, I'm just now reading this - my phone has the rathers -- it withholds messages from me. I really appreciate your friendship with my son, Steve. You knew him well! He has changed a lot since he (rather Katie) broke up with him.
